IN CAMP,
PROVINCE OF CAMAGUAY,
May 6.

Again we have routed the Spanish. This Again we have routed the Spanish. This morning, while on our way to join Gen. Gomez, we met $500 Spanish troops under Gen. Salcede, who was on his way to attack Gomes and mistook our band for his. We numbered 2700 under Col. Rodriguez. When the advance guard was driven in by the Spaniards, we immediately formed in line and waited the Spanish above. These came on guickly, but atley formed in line and waited the Span-ish charge. They came on quickly, but broke quickly before our fire. Twice again they started the same game. We charged and again routed them. The rangers were the first to break the Span-ish ranks. NEW YORK, May 13.—A special to the World from Santiago de Cuba says that the whole situation in Cuba has changed.
There is a continual exodus of white Cubans from Santiago now, whereas up to a week ago the reports of numerous departures for the field were incorrect. Nearly one hundred members of the Fial Armonica and San Carlos clubs have gone-into the country. The zovernment of the island is alarmed, but is divided in its councils as to the expediency of sending to Spain for more troops. Gen. Salcedo thinks it would be useless to bring over any more raw, unacclimated levies until the season has changed.

Principe is still reported quiet.

Gen. Maceo has nearly 3000 men at Barnabacca plantation, two leagues from Songo. All the Spanish troops at the latter place were sent to San Lutis, which was threatened with a raid. One thousand Spanish soldiers left San Luti last night to look for Maceo. They went in the direction of Palma.

WASHINGTON. May 13,—Minister Dupuy de Lome of Spain says the Tampa story as to a bloody battle in which 1000 or more Spanish troops were slaughtered or more Spanish troops were slaughtered is absurd. He does not regard a denial necessary, but he expresses surprise that the public should be misled into crediting a tragedy which, if true, would be of such magnitude as to be known by the whole world. The Minister points out that such a great engagement would not fail to have occupied the attention of American correspondents on the ground. He says the reports of telegraph wires being cut are untrue. The wires are in full use, and there is no restriction on communicating Senor Dupuy de Lome says there can be no battles, as there is no enemy other than small, scattered bands who are carrying on a guerilla or swamp warfare FILIBUSTERERS ASTIR.

NEW YORK, May 13.—A special from Key West says that an excited movement has been noticed among the prominent Curbans in that city. It was reported by hundred carrier pigeons will be used by fillbustering expeditions. Two prominent young Cubans arrived in the city Saturday on the Mascotte from Havana. One day on the Mascotte from Havana. One is a son of Fabiola Freira, a prominent member of the home-rule party in Camaguey, and the other is Silvestro Angleda. It is rumored that they will join an expedition from some point in Florida.

The government has committees collecting funds from business men and others in Havana. They only collected $29 in gold and $104 in silver in two days. Several suspicious-looking vessels are reported off Pinar del Rio and Santiago. It is supposed they are landing expeditions and arms.

THE WAR PRACTICALLY ENDED. PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—The Spanish government has notified the Cramps, the shipbuilders, that the gunboat contracted for to be used on the River Cauto in Cuba will not be needed, as the Cuban rebellion is practically at an end. This is due to reports made by Gen. Campos, commander-in-chief of the Spanish troops in Cuba, that no further ships or materials of war need be sent him.

There has been fighting between the Spanish troops and the rebels near Baracoa, but no details of the engagement have been received here. The troops at Palma de Soriano killed Pablo Ruega, one of the rebel chiefs.

SEALERS' CLAIMS.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—An arrangement has been effected between the United States and Great Britain, in which United States and Great Britain, in which October is set as the time for the assembling in Wazhington of a committee to negotiate a treaty as to claims of sasiers on account of Bering Sea ecizes. Delegates will come from Canada to meet the authorities here.

The report coming from Victoria that the British government had vacated the sealing regulations because of non-payment by the United States of the $425,000, claimed for seizures, is said to be due to misapprehension. In view of the fact 000, claimed for seizures, is said to be due to misapprehension. In view of the fact that the committee will meet in October to consider these seizures, there would be, it is stated, no present ground for complaint for non-payment. Moreover, it is learned that the report from Victoria, B. C., is based on a misunderstanding of the word "sealing," which does not apply to the seal animals, but to the locks, or seals, by which implements used in sealing are locked up during the closed season. From authoritative souces the substantial features of the text of the new Britial features of the text of the new Brit From authoritative souces the substantial features of the text of the new Brit tial features of the text of the new British regulations have been secured. Last year a rule was made that sealers could go to Japan, or other proximate territory, where a British consul or other officer would seal up the ammunition, guns, etc., used in sealing. Vessels having arms thus sealed up were allowed to remain in Bering Sea during the closed season. They were not subject to search and seizure, as the seal on their arms was a guarantee that they were not capturing fur-bearing animals. But the British Admiralty has found that this rule is impracticable. In one case a shipmaster concealed arms and found that this rule is impracticable. In one case a shipmaster concealed arms and used them in the closed season, although he had another set of arms sealed up as a guarantee against inspection. In another case the apparatus used for life-saving was seized, under the impression that it was used for killing seals.

Owing to these objections the British authorities have determined to abolish this one rule, but not all of the rules, and notice to that effect has been given. The authorities have determined to aboush this one rule, but not all of the rules, and notice to that effect has been given. The effect has been to make it unfacessary for vessels to go to Japan or elsewhere and have their arms sealed up during the closed season. It is said, however, that this will not permit British ships to poach during the closed season. The law against this is on the British statute books in the same words as adopted by the Paris court of arbitration. The abolition of the rule will not, it is said, permit the violation of the law against the use of arms in the closed season. British naval vessels will pairol the sea as usual, and the list of these patrol ships is daily expected.

National Council Meets at Omaha-Consolidation Desired.

OMAHA, May 13.—The National Council of the Catholic Knights of America will convene in this city tomorrow. Repre-sentatives are present from every State in the Union. In addition to the regular delegates probably one hundred members of the uniform division are here. A large number of amendments to the constitution and by-laws proposed by the various branches will come up for action. The question of changing the constitution so question of changing the constitution so as to admit women will be considered, as well as a score or more amendments of minor importance.

It seems probable the National Council will take the initiative in a movement, the ultimate object of which is the consoldation of the various Catholic organizations that are general in character and benevolent in purpose. There are a dozen such organizations with an aggregate membership exceeding 200,000. It is believed that if these were united a vast saving in expense of operation would be effected and thus a great incentive to increase the membership established, besides greater influence would be exerted than is now possible.

FROM WESTERN NEW YORK.

BUFFALO (N. Y.,) May 13.—Dispatches from all over Western New York prove this section of the State has suffered from the frost. Along the grape belt in Chautauqua county, the grape-growers took a seiancholy outlook and some messages state that the crop is entirely destroyed. In Niagara county, where small fruits are frequently raised, there is a disposition to take a gloomy view of the ravages of the frost, but conservative judges chink the damage not general or severe. Next to grapes, strawberries perhaps have been more seriously hurt.

In Allegheny county the lowest temperature recorded was 25 deg. and it is likely that all kinds of fruit have been damaged. Dispatches from Western Ontario indicate that the temperature was very jouch heavier than on this side of the border.

A COMPLETE FAILURE. ERIE (Pa.,) May 13.—The grape crop in this section will be a complete failure be-cause of last night's frust. The total precipitation was nothing.

from one end of the State to the other and the crop is reported as good in yield and excellent in quality.

The high winds damaged considerable early fruit by whipping it off the trees, thereby doing away with thinning by hand. What fruit remains will no doubt mature finely. Cherries seem to have been the most damaged of any fruit. The general outlook for fruit, grain, hay, grapes and hops has been advanced by the beneficial weather of the week.

Frosts are reported from Siskiyou county which may slightly damage the fruit crop, but that crop in the mountain counties is consumed in the locality in which it is raised, therefore an excess or a deficiency in that region cuts no figure in its effect on such crops in the valley portions of the State.

The highest temperature was 98 des. in State.

The highest temperature was 98 deg. in the San Joaquin Valley and about the same in the Sacramento Valley and from 94 to 96 deg. in Southern California, the hot wave of the week being therefore not a local one.

FOUGHT AGAINST ODDS. Marshal Kelly Kills the Leader of the Bull Hill Miners.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service ORIPPLE CREEK (Colo.,) May

Jack Smith, the famous leader of the Bull Hill miners, was shot and killed by Mar-shal Jack Kelly of Altman this afternoon. The Marshal also shot George Popst, a miner who was with Smith. The shooting created a reign of terror in the great gold camp. The miners threaten to avenge the death of their late war captain and all saloons have been closed in Victor and Altman. Martial law has practically been declared. Acts of violence are expected at any moment.

Last night Jack Smith shot out all of the lights in Dan Foley's saloon in Victor. This morning he was arrested and placed in jail. As soon as he was released he went to Altman, the miners' camp, and proceeded to terrorize the inhabitants. Marshal Keily ordered him out of town. Smith opened fire and Popst stood by him. Keily returned the fire and shot down both men, escaping, injury.

During the Cripple Creek strike of last spring Smith was the leader of the war-like element among the miners. He was arrested at Grand Junction about two months ago and was under bond. Smith's friends awear that they will avenge his steath. The wildest excitement prevails. Every weapon to be found is being confiscated by the civil authorities.

Associated Press Leased-wire Services.

NEW YORK, May 13.—A Washington special to a morning paper says: "At the consultation of justices on Saturday, Justices Jackson voted with Justices Brown, White, Harlan and Shiras, to custain the constitutionality of the income-tax law, and the vote, when amnounced next Monday, will stand 5 to 4 in favor of the law. It is learned that Justice Jackson's attitude was understood by his colleagues on the bench before he came to Washington. He has at all times been fully advised as to the merits of the case and was furnished with the record and law briefs, so he was fully prepared to vote when the justices met in consultation yesterday.

"His only reason for coming to Washington was to gratify the desire of the court to have the snoome-tax law settled decisively so that the court would not be left divided on such an important question with the possibility of an endicas litigation. It is learned, moreover, that the argument did not change the views of a single justice."

Judge Jackson called at the White House today and pald his respects to the President. He expects to leave for Tennessee tonight or tomorrow in the expectation of returning here in time for the October term of the court, and his house is being put in repair in anticipation of his permanent residence here at that time.

The officials of the government inter-his permanent residence here at that time.

The officials of the government interested in revenues are much more hopeful of a favorable decision, and while formerly expressing the belief that the faw would be upset, now say that the facts in reference to Saturday's conference of the Supreme Court as given in the Associated Press dispatches make them consident that Justice Jackson has voted in favor of the constitutionality of the law, at least as regards the points on which the court was divided.

The income tax returns already reof the persons legally liable under the law.

If the recent decision of the court is sustained next Monday, as is now regarded as altogether probable, the delinquents will certainly be proceeded against as rapidly as possible, and it is thought that the 50 per cent. penalty imposed by the law will not be remitted in any case. It is asserted that the persons who have failed to make returns have done so with a clear understanding of the law, and in many cases have refused to comply with it on legal advice, preferring to take their chances of being compelled to pay the penalty.

It is learned definitely that a conclusion was reached at Saturday's consultation, of the Supreme Court and that it is confidently expected to have the opinion in the case ready for announcement next Monday. No authoritative statement as to which way the decision will be can be secured, of course, but all that can be learned goes to corroborate the Associated Press report Saturday that the indications favored the upholding of the law on the points that remain. A member of the court is responsible for the statement that there will probably be two opinions, but he would not go to the extent of indicating on which side the majority would be.

The present intention is to make the opinions comparatively brief. They will cover only the questions left undecided in the first decision, as to whether the void provisions cover the whole act; whether the act as it affects incomes from personal property as such is unconstitutional because it provides for direct taxation of them and whether the tax is invalid on account of want of uniformity. The understanding now is that Justice Harlan will prepare the majority opinion sustaining the law.

The court at this, session will render opinions on a large number of other cases

THE RIGHT TO SIT.

The Speaker questioned His Lordship on the subject with the result that he asked him to withdraw below the bar of the House until the question to his right to sit as a member was decided. The Earl of Selborne complied with the Speaker's request, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, then briefly explained his view of the situation, which, was that after the usual formalities had been gone through with, a writ should be issued for a new election for the seat occupied by the Earl of Selborne.

for the seat occupied by the Earl of Selborne.

A heated discussion followed, and finally the Chancellor of the Exchequer consented to move to refer the question to a small special committee. Sir William said he thought the Earl of Selborne was being badly advised, and, therefore, he would move to issue a writ for an election in West Edinburgh and thus end the whole thing. Later, however, the Chancellor was persuaded to withdraw his motion and the subject was dropped.

The friends of the Earl of Selborne say that if a special committee decides against he will seek re-election. The question as to whether a member of the House who becomes a peer of the realm can continue to zif in the House of Commons, or whether a peer can be elected to membership in the House of Commons is exciting the keenest interest.

The Minister says this impression characterized all- the admiral's actions while the United States fleet was in Venezuelan waters. It was so marked as to attract the notice of Venezuelans. The government officials, who were well informed on the pacific character of the visit, were surprised that the impression should be given that there was political significance in the visit. Hazelton says this course aroused a decided feeling of disapproval among the government authorities. They did not, he says, care to be patronized, when, as they understood the facts, the visit of the fleet was an incident to its being in southern waters, and was not intended as evidence of the position of the United States on the international question involved.

The Minister today referred to Admiral Meade's address as meaning more than an expression of the usual official courtesies, and declared that is conveyed the general impression that the United States vessels were there as an evidence of the political policy of the United States.

It was stated at the White House today that the action taken in the case of Minister Hazelton would not be recalled, and that Hazelton would not return to Venezuela as Minister of the United States.

young lady has a record of being one of the hardest workers in the university. She had an earnest competitor in Will H. Gorrill. He was a very close second, and there was really little difference between the two, who are the best of friends. Miss Felton devoted all her time to her studies, while Gorrill had considerable outside work demanding his attention. When the professor commenced to make final cast this counted against Gorrill, and he lost by two points.

When Miss Felton first entered the State University she had made up her mind to be a lawyer and picked out a course of study with this profession in view. Her father, the late John B. Felton, was a leading lawyer in his day and was at one time a regent of the university. His daughter had great aspirations to become a leading lawyer, but many of her friends prevailed upon her to change her plans and become a teacher. Miss Felton will probably take a post-graduate course and prepare herself for college work.

more than one cent per pound. Another fodder is composed of 20 per cent. cotton seed flour, 40 per cent. paim nuts, and 40 per cent. malasses. Some factories und take their own mixing, and the substan per cent. maiasses. Some factories undertake their own mixing, and the substance produced contains 14 per cent. protein, 3 per cent. fatty matter and 50 per cent.
non-nitrogenous matter. The result of feeding cattle on these rations have been very satisfactory. Sheep have also been fattened on a molasses diet. One of the best ways of giving molasses to cattle is to mix it with their drinking water, and astonixhing success has been obtained by adding to the water givin to cattle about twenty-one pounds of molasses per dien, per head. As cavalry horses have been found to do good work on a continuous diet of sugar, & has been thought that cattle might thrive n molasses alone. This belief, however, has been disproved by Prof. Maercker, who concluded that the maximum of molasses that it was advisable feed per 1000 pounds live weight, and per diem was three to four pounds for oxen and two and one-half pounds for mich cows. That this was a wise restriction has been evident by the results the have spondence.) John H. Schooling has been making a scientific study of hardwriting. more especially in its relation to mental onditions, and, atthough much exaggerated seliefs as to the reliability of the delinea-tion of character by handwriting, has been tion of character by handwriting, has been encouraged by professional graphiologists, Mr. Schooling finds the subject full of interest and valeu. For a long time, the curious differences in the handwriting of the same person puzzled him. He eventually found that where there was no varietien in the handwriting from year to report the graphic demander, value influences. eventually found that where there was no year, the general demeanor, voice inflection, tone of voice, style of walking, ewe, was unchanged; but where the change of handwriting was apparent, the writers invariably exhibited a corresponding variation in general demeanor, voice, inflection, etc. Written gesture is the only form of gesture which is permanently self-registering at the moment of its expression. The pen-strokes of a person may be regarded as so many little nerve-muscular gestures, which are on a par with the delicate and expressive actions of the small features in the face. There may be, of course, many side issues which produce abnormal conditions in writing, such as illness, extreme haste, the attempt to wfite elegibly in violation of habit, etc., but ordinarily the handwriting which constantly shows an ascendant movement across the page, either as regards endividual words or as regards the lines of words, indicates a man of ardent, active and sanguine nature. Thes qualities are accompanied by a plentiful store of nerve-force; and ploony of nerve-force; and ploony of nerve-force carees a man to perform all and two and one-half pounds for mitch cows. That this was a wise restriction has been evident by the results that have followed when the proportion of molasses was exceeded. Experts now say that the best results are obtained by using 50 per cent. of fodder and 50 per cent. of molasses. The utilization of molasses for cattle feed is not new; it has been practiced in many countries for over half a century. In the West Indies, one of the events of the beginning of "crop" on the sugar estates is the first feed of "chop-tops" given to the working cattle. The over the fodder, and over all is thrown a top-dressing of rich molasses. The cattle revgel in tht mixture, and, after having fairly proged themselves, they will linger to such up the molasses that has trickled down into the bottom of the trough. Be-fore many weeks have passed they are fat and shining, and horses and sheep, which also take kindly to the food, give ample vidence of its fattening and bene-ficial properties. An expert on gyoling matters who was asked "How will the bleycle be improved in future years?" says there is some ground for believing that the chainless than is really necessary in the act of writing. As a contrast, the handwriting that runs down across the page, dropoing below the horizontal level from which it starts, exhibits the gesture of depression, of want of ardor, of sadness. There is a deficiency of nerve-force, and the dragging of want of ardor, of sadness. There is a deficiency of nerve-force, and the dragging hand gets through its task at the least expenditure of energy, and it lacks the virility and "go" which mark the former gestures. Even as regards normally sanguine people, a profound sorrow, or a physical trouble, will cause this gesture of depression to show in their handwriting, as it will show in their temporary lax gait and bent head. A confused hand often betokens confusion of thought and marred carelessness in writing shows want of courtesy, inasmuch as it necessarily causes some inconvenience to the addresses of the letter. People who are plain, direct and straightforward do not write with useless and ill-controlled elaboration of gesture, which is rather the gesture of in-safety gill be the coming bicycle. Over-coming the friction is the greatest diffiwheel, and many of the experiments which have been made to this end have given en-couraging results. There will be improve-ment all around in the construction of a bicycle—in the tires, the sad-dles and the pedals. Already a sad-dle has been brought out in France dles and the pedals. Already a saddle has been brought out in France which is pronounced a comfort and a delight. It is said to enable a wheelman not only to ride further with less discomfort and war and tear, but to add distinctly to his speed. The present saddle is barbarous and unscientific, and before long the public will realize the fact, and demand improvement. The bicycle-makers are loath to adopt a new idea, no matter how good it is, and it is only the pressure of popular dissatisfaction that will drive them to the manufacture of a better form of saddle. It was so with the safety frame, the puematic tire, the wood rim, and other improvements. Just now, light wheels are the fashion, but they are certain to be dropped later on. On the question of whether cycling is merely a craze, or will take a permanent place among the national pastimes, opinion is divided. The authority just mentioned says on this head: "Of course the cycling craze will die out and the sport remain. Cycling has backbone, and has come to stay; but it may experience a setback, for many persons now riding will hardly do so next year or the year after. Field ath letics, tennis, baseball, roller-skating and many other sports have all had their booms in this country, and cycling now has the time and attention of the public." Nevertheless, cycling is about the most rational and healthy craze that has taken hold of the people in a generation, and it bears unmistakable signs of robustness and long life. or the letter. People who are plain, direct and straightforward do not write with useless and ill-controlled elaboration of gesture, which is rather the geature of insincere, affected, or pretentious individuals. Mr. Schooling has not much patience with the man who writes the body of a letter in a slovenly style, and expends infinite pains on his signature. There is much expression in the dots of the i. Take a magnifying glass and note the difference between those leisurely placed by a caim unemotional man, and those dashed down by an impulsive or animated person. There is unquestionably a close connection between peculiarities in written gesture and psychical conditions. he deliberate action of letting the hand move very calmy and quietly, and thus producing very calm and equable written gestures, causes the subsidence of a temporary condition of mental agitation and restlessness. The setting of the hand to wander about the paper making confused and tangled written gestures creates in a normally clear-thinging and orderly might, a sensation of confusion. If the hand is deliberately forced to make wigorous and ascendant written gestures the effect in reducing mental depression is distinctly apparent. Conversely, useful results are obtained by assuming with sincerity and thoroughness any condition of thought or emotion, and then frely allowing the hand to write under the influence of the assumed and partly realized condition, without any conscious bias toward this or that form of written gesture. The study of handwriting, far from being a foolish pastime, must be regarded as a branch of the study of human gesture by which much knowledge may be gained of the physical expression of pzychical conditions.

(San Diego Union:) Pineapples, grown in the famous El Cajon Valley, within twenty miles of San Diego, are the latest practical illustrations of the adaptation of the soil and climate in this county for raising every kind of fruit, even the finest tropical varieties. Local dealers report these home-grown pineapples to be superior to those raised in the southern countries, and the demand for them is far in excess of the supply. Those now in the market are of fair size, firm, juicy and of excellent flavor. This is another industry added to the many that is now making San Diego county justly renowned.

(Bakersfield Californian:) The only possible outcome of the Huntington-Stone pass business has been reached. The courts have decided that no crime was committed, and that there has been no infraction of the interstate commerce law. Incidentally, they have also decided that the Federal grand jury of San Francisco made a holy show of tiself. Of course, there will be a demagogic howl about rich men controlling the courts, but no man with a grain of unprejudiced common sense expected anything else or thought any other conclusion was possible.

BUSINESS.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES LOS ANGELES, May 13, 1895. COUNTERFEIT MONEY. Those who ar handling large amounts of money need to be cautious just now. Reports from San Francisco are to the effect that there San Francisco are to the effect that there is a large amount of counterfeit coin in ofrculation up there. Dollar pieces and quarters prevail, and there is out an excellent imitation of the new half dollar. Antimony and glass enter largely into the composition of these counterfeits, which have an excellent ring on wood or marble. They may be easily detected by their lack of weight and pseudiar effect they proof weight and peculiar effect they pro-duce upon the sense of touch when they come into contact with the fingers. Large quantities of the spurious coins have been inloaded out at the Bay District track, where it is an easy matter to circulate t because of the rapidity with which coin RAILWAY INCOMES. It is only natural that the railroads of the country should suffer in common with other lines of busi-ness. The present finarcial condition of the leading railroads of the country is by the feading railroads of the country is by no means encouraging as compared with a few years ago. The Financial Chroniele has published an article on the operations of the leading railways of the United States during 1894, in which the fact is brought out that the gross receopts of 206 roads, representing 134,777 miles, fell off $122,972,194, and that the total decrease of the gross income of all American roads probably reached $163,000,000. It appears, however, that the net income was not reduced in so drastic a manner. The 206 roads that showed a diminution of $122,972,194 of gross income by the practice of doubtful economies reduced their operating expenses by $82,645,591 or 10.88 per cent., so as to show a decrease in net income of only $40,323,603.

RIVERSIDE OKANGES. A paragraph from the Times correspondent at River-side was published yesterday in which the correspondent, referring to the large ship-ments that have been made from Riverside this season, gives the total shipments up to May 9, at 1714 carloads, the value of which he estimates at about $600,000. This appears to be a rather low estimate, as it is only equal to about $1.25 a box. Including local sales and shipments to Including local sales and shipments to Los Angeles, the correspondent's estimate of the income of the Riversiders from oranges up to a week ago, was $750,000. which is a very nice amount to distribute among a small population like that of Riverside. With another season or two like that of the past year the Riverside people will be able to pay off a good many of their heavy mortgages.

POOR WINE. Now that through cooperation on part of the California dealers a fair price is being obtained for California wines in the East, our growers should exercise care and good judgment in the selection of wines which they ship so that a good reputation may be maintained for them. It appears that some growers who are not connected with the new association have been shipping some very poor stuff to New York. The result of this has been that the shippers have not only got little or nothing for their trouble, but at the same time this poor atuff has tended to confirm the prejudices of those Eastern people who think—or affect to think—that California wine is not fit to drink unless it bears a French label.

The New York auction firm of Sgobel & Day, a member of which firm recently addressed the fruit-growers in Los Angeles, wrote the following letter to the California Wine-makers' Corporation:

"We beg to advise the sale today of California wine as follows: From Napa—Eight barrels of Franckin Chasselas, 16 cents; twen barrels of Ressling, 16½ cents; ten barrels of Ressling, 16½ cents; two barrels of Sauvignon Verte, 15½ cents; ten barrels of Chasselas, 18 cents. "Today's sale is what we may call quite cents; twenty barrels of Berger, 15½ cents; ten barrels of Riesling, 16½ cents; two barrels of Sauvignon Verte, 15½ cents; ten barrels of Chasselas, 18 cents. "Today's sale is what we may call quite disappointing, but the fact that some of the wines ware deficient in alcoholic strength, and others did not land in prime order made buyers somewhat timid in bidding. Of course when white wines lack so much in alcoholic strength they have to be mixed with other wines or put through some sort of a process before they can be sold. For this reason these light wines cannot obtain high prices. Our friends tell us they are pretty well stocked up, but we think had these wines been better the bidding would have been liviler."

Manager Wheeler of the Wine-makers' Corporation, commenting upon this letter to a Call reporter, made the following remarks, which should be carefully considered by all who are engaged in the wine industry:

"The information contained in this let."

industry:

"The information contained in this letter should prove of value to all intending wine-shippers who have adopted the auction system of disposing of goods which they are unable to market in California as wines. Taking the cost of barrels at 5 cents per gallon, freight at 5½ cents (including the local.) and commisreis at 5 cents per gallon, freight at 5½ cents (including the local.) and commission, and other general expenses, amounting to 1½ cents, we have for total selling expenses 12 cents, and the wine netted the owner from 3 to 6 cents. Particular attention should be paid to that part of the letter which states that such wines must be mixed or put through some sort of process' to make them salable, and to the pernicious effects of sending such goods to represent California, and to be sold under the proud name of 'Napa county Riesling.' or wine of other popular districts. "Good wines to the amount of 7,000,000 gallons have already been sold through this corporation at 100 per cent. advance over the price of one year ago. We are striving to induce the producers to distill their inferior goods, thus cutting down the supply to the betterment of prices generally. The wines named in the above letter are outside of our control, but were passed upon, duly condemned, and the owner requested to see that they were disposed of by distillation. Against the protest of our body and other well-wishers of California industries, they are now going to New York."

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

CREAMERY ENTERPRISES. A short time ago it was announced that the Elgin Creamery was about to remove the scene of its operations to Kern county. This proposed enterprise may or may not have some connection with the scheme referred to below in a communication from W. Walker McKeen, secretary of the Maine Board of Agriculture, published in an Eastern agricultural paper:

Bastern agricultural paper:

"We learn that representatives of a Western firm are in Maine again trying to start a boom for their system of building creameries. We believe it is the same firm that contracted for the four creameries built several years ago, on the so-called 'Elgin plan,' which resulted so disastrously for all who took stock or furnished 'milk. We would therefore warn all of our business men and farmers against taking stock in their enterprise or encouraging them in any way. Farmers in sections where creameries are needed should co-operate with each other in the matter, erect their own building, and purchase their supplies only of local firms, whose responsibilities are well known. These men are now in Lincoln county, but are liable to appear in any locality at any time."

PROFIT IN FLOWERS. Following on the Los Angeles fiests, which celebration itself took its cue largely from the Santa Barbara festival, there has been a regu-lar epidemic of flower shows and carnivals throughout the central portion of the State. There has even been a rose show in San Francisco, where, owing to the raw weather that prevails during a large part of the year, flowers are more scarce than in any other large city of the State. The big mansions of the millionaires on Nob Hill in San Francisco are as conspleuous for the lack of flowering shrubs and plants surrounding them as the big residences of Los Angeles are for the wealth of foliage in which most of them are burled?

weath of foliage in which most of them are buried.
It would be a good thing if this new and interesting feature of California life should lead to an awakening of interest in the material side of floriculture, for in this fortunate State there is a material side to the culture of flowers as well as an esthetic one. Much has been written on the authert during the past few years, but fortunate State there is a material side to the culture of flowers as well as an esthetic one. Much has been written on the subject during the past few years, but so far the growing of flowers for profit has not kept pace with most of the other lines of horticultural activity. This is an industry which particularly recommends itself to women, and especially such as are invalids, provided they are not bedridden, but can move around a little. It is by no means necessary to have much capital in order to start a little business of this kind. All that is needed is a plot of ground with fairly good soil and something of a fondness for flowers, as this line of business is no exception to the general rule that success only comes to those who take an interest in their work. As an instance of what can be done in this line there is a woman in Santa Monica who clears several hundred dollars every winter from the sale of violets grown on a lot of ordinary size. Another woman in the northern part of the city soid roses last winter to the value of $48, grown upon a small portion of a fifty-foot lot. Winter is the time when flowers are most in demand by the florists and any of these dealers can give information as to which varieties of flowers are the best to set out. Even if a woman does not make a living from this industry she can generally manage to make a very acceptable amount of pocket money, and then if she develops any special taste she may in time work up into a business like that of Mrs. Sheppard at Ventura, who ships seeds and bulbs all over the world.

Of course the local market for cut flowers would soon be glutted if many persons were to go into the business of raising them for the market, but it is only a question of a short time before practicable methods of shipping cut flowers to the East will be introduced and then there will be an outlet for all that this section is likely to produce for a number of years to come.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Speculation on the Stock Exchange today was on a mag-nificent scale, the transactions aggregat-ing nearly 700,000 shares. At the opening ing nearly 700,000 shares. At the opening of business the market was irregular, but the tendency in the main was toward lower figures, due principally to sales for foreign account. In the London market a realizing movement in Americans was in progress and the arbitrage brokers sold in this market also to take profits. The bears took advantage of the situation to depress values and as a result losses, ranging up to 1½ per cent., were made in the first half-hour, Louisville and Nashville, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific preferred, the Grangers and Lackawanna leading the decline. Sugar fell off %, but quickly moved up 2%. A rally occurred after 10:30 o'clock, good buyers coming in at the lower range of prices and a general advance took place, gains being recorded of ¼ 63% per cent. The Grangers fell off ½61 per cent. and Reading 1¼. Toward noon there was a decline of 5c to 10c. The numerous lots of choice heavy steers stoy a limit and a limited extent. Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

CHICAGO, May 13.—Wheat opened at a slight decline, partly on account of the change from unseasonable heat to com-pensate cold being considered rather beneficial than otherwise for the growing crop. The week's shipments from Russia amounted to the unsually heavy total of 5,200,000 bushels and that information was in the hands of people at the seaboard before the opening, but did not become public until half an hour afterward and then it was discovered by those who had sold upon their advance information regarding the Russian shipments that they had miscalculated its effect upon the crowd. From 64 and 64½ at the opening the price of July had gradually risen to about 64½ when the Russian shipments were made known, but broke to crop. The week's shipments from Rus ments were made known, but broke to 64% only at that time and again recov-ered to 64%, although it had a further decline later. The market came under the ered to 64%, although it had a further decline later. The market came under the influence of heavy shipments from other countries and the price of July fell to 63% in a hurry, but made even greater haste in getting back to a higher point than before. From 63% it advanced to 65% in about fifteen minutes. Export clearances, wheat and flour, since Saturday, were 191,000 bushels. Opening cables brought higher quotations. The poor crop prospects and the disapearing visible supply was too strong a combination for the short sellers. The price advanced near the close to 65% and it wound up at 65%. Many houses had reports of poor prospects for winter wheat throughout Illinois, Michigan, Missouri and Kansas. Corn was dull and firm, without showing much independence of action. It had a range in price for July of from 50% to 51 and closed within 1-16 of the top. The closing strength was due to sympathy with the firmness of the wheat market. A fairly active market was recorded for oats. The tone was easier on all deliveries with the exception of September. There was a very good demand for that month and at the close an advance of % was scored. Provisions were without life or interest and in lard and ribs of 2% cents appeared to be due entirely to strength in wheat.

Once a Week for May 9 is rich with striking and entertaining articles, and handsome illustrations. Among the leading features are one on current Arctic exploration called "To Seek Both Poles," by the well-known explorer, W. H. Gilder; a very curious one on "The Status of Women in China," by Margherita Arlina Hamm; an amusing story entitled "Vinegar-Cured," by Duffield Osborne; and the first installment of a strong and impressive novelette, called "A Disguised Blessing," by Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen. "The Nicaragua Canal" and the wonderful development of commerce which will be possible because of it are discussed by Edward King; and photographs of the new commissioners and maps of routes are given. Jeanette H. Walworth gossips of "The Adhesive Property of Nicknames," Edgar Fawcett's fine serial of New York life is continued. The dismantling of the "Chicago" is described by pen and pencil. R. K. Munkittrick contributes a pretty May song; and Fannie Edgar Thomas writes of "American Songstresses in Paris." Patterns for home dressmaking are given for the ladies, and the Congressional gallery is continued.

BIMETALLISM.

The advocates of free and unlimited rilver coinage, at a ratio of 16 to 1, have chosen to call themselves "bimetallists."

This is a euphemism by which they see the retirement of gold, the substitution of silver therefor, the inflation of prices, the loss of confidence, and the general demorali

The plan which these extremists propose indefinitely. But our commercial relations with the outside world are so intimate and so complex that we cannot maintain an a value not recognized by other commercial mations. We cannot hold silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, in unlimited quantity, when the outside world holds it at about 32 to 1 of ratio egreed upon but the United States could not do so without losing both its gold and its commercial standing among the mations of the world.

The term "bimetallist" is somewhat vague and indeterminate. That the free and unlimited silverites should choose to masquerade under its rather expansive banner is not highly complementary to their courage. If they are both earnest and honest, they should not hesitate to announce their real purpose, which is to set up the silver standard and to destroy the gold standard in this country.

But the question of standards is less important than the question of ratios. It does not matter so much whether we

A TANGLE IN CITY BONDS.

The City Council finds itself compelle confront a serious problem in the mat ter of our city bonds, or certain series of them, at least; it is called upon to mee a grave financial issue promptly and squarely, and to deal with it wisely and official action is required, touch ing the following-named bonds (which are here described with approximate correctwe believe, though exact data is n at hand at the moment of this writing.) These bonds, according to the opinion of high expert legal authority, are said to not refundable under the law, as it stands, as has heretofore been supposed in City Hall official circles, but they must be paid t maturity. The bonds referred to are: (1.) Two series—$58,000 and $17,000 re ned to carry forward an old city debt, and n 1901, aggregating $75,000. (2.) The twenty-year bonds voted in 1886, ed and sold in three series, in 1886, 1887 and 1888, respectively, falling due in 1906, 1907 and 1908, and aggregating $245,-

Now, if it be true that these various bonds, aggregating $320,000, cannot legally be refunded according to the intention and previous expectation of the city au-thorities, but must be paid at maturity, then it becomes the imperative duty of the City Council to take prompt measures looking to the providing of necessary by taxation or otherwise, for meet g the demands upon the city treasur they fall due. Thus can the credit of the city be preserved inviolate. A sink-ing fund will have to be gradually created for the purpose through taxation either that, or resort must be had to bor-rowing, the expediency and legality of which are doubtful. The task of creating ent sinking fund for the purpos time of the maturity of these bonds. It should be begun in good time in advance.

Besides the bonds named there is anher series, aggregating $76,000, which $50,000 has been paid, and the balanss be presented and discharged phase of the matter which is especially serious is the fact that if the payment of the bonds due in 1901, 1906, 1907 and 1908, respectively—aggregating $220,000—is not amply and promptly provided for (they not being legally refunda already stated.) the effect will of the last series, voted in the present menth, to-wit., the bonds for new schoolaouses, for a new police station, and for orks. These forty-year bonds aggre-

Under right conditions, and with sagamanagement on the part of the city orities, these new bonds ought to sell readily at a handsome premlum; but they tted to intervene, such as would be the failure to promptly provide for the payment of the older series of bonds which we have described.

It may here be said, parenthetically, that, under the circumstances, it is well that no more bonds were voted at the

In the existing dilemma, as it seems to The Times, it is the plain duty and the obvious policy of the City Council to take est legal advice obtainable upon the exact legal status of the several serie of city bonds now outstanding, as well as upon the question of the proposed issuof forty-year bonds, aggregating $376,000 as authorized at the last bond election mably this last series will prove to have been properly authorized; but, to make assurance doubly sure, the formal judgment of attorneys, whose opinions are recognized and accepted in bond-buying circles, should be procured in advance of advertising the bonds for sale. The cost to the city of such an opinion will be take, should one be made.

As to the other series, falling due in six and ten years, respectively, if the high legal opinion which we understand to have been already informally rendered to the effect that these bonds cannot be egally refunded, but must be paid at maif that opinion is sustained the sefore the Council is too plain to be ted or evaded.

for May 9, Edward King speculates on the great changes in trade which will come with the opening of the Nicaragua Canal. He says:

"Vast as was the influence of the Suez Canal, when first completed, upon the trade routes of the world and the trade which poured along them, it shrinks into insignificance when compared with that which the canal across Nicaragua will exercise. Glance at the chart of the world printed with this article, and note the wonderful eaving of distances which will be achieved by the canal's construction. The currents of commerce which now toil around the Cape of Good Hope and Cape Horn on their way from Europe to Australia or India or China, will hereafter dart straight across the Atlantic to Central America, pass through the canal and on haif a dozen great ocean lanes hasten to their destination. The canal will be the most cosmopolitan of gateways. Hong Kong and Batavia, Melbourne and Auckland, Manilia and Yokohama, Shanghai and Canton, will send to it the rich produce of the Orient. The treasures of the Pacific Slope, the wheat of Washington, the fruits of Oregon and California, the ore of Nevada and Arisona, will pass through it on their way to Europe. In the dawn of the twentieth century the soft southern seas will be dotted with the innumerable sails of majestic ships, carrying the wealth of Sitates which now restrain their production because it is so difficult to get their goods to market at cheap rates. Built and controlled by the United States alone, the canal would raise the volume of our trade with South American countries from a miserable one hundred million or one hundred and twenty-five million collars annually to five or six hundred million every year. It will be an instrument of commercial as well as political power, if left in the complete control of this government. If sufmitted to z 'joint protectorate,' or if menaced by a great maritime power, like England, by the establishment of 'observation fortresses' near at hand, its givantiges to us will be vastly iess. Might they Let us have the largest use of silver compatible with the integrity of our currency. But every dollar of that currency must be worth as much as every other dollar and no more. There are some people in the stagnate parts of the country who look with en-vious eyes upon Southern California's pros-perity and claim that it is the result of the enormous amount of advertising which this section has received. In a measure they are right. Where is the man who does not admit of the power of advertising? Look at the columns of The Times sential as advertising is the merit of thing or section advertised. Southern California progresses because she deserves to progress. The intrinsic value of her acres has and is being demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt. Her climate is vouched for by the United States government, and by tens of thousands of climate-seekers, as the most congenial climate the year round to be found anywhere, either at home or abroad. Denude Southern Cali-fornia of all of her natural resources and let her climate continue as it is today, and eventually she would become thickly pop-ulated. But, added to this climate are wonderfully rich agricultural, horticultural and mineral resources. Such a combination exists nowhere else in the Unite States. This is a moderate statement of literal facts. It is in no wise the least exaggeration. Any one can prove it personally to their complete satisfaction by living here a year. Therefore the claims of people, in sections devoid of good car-mate and of advantages less fruitful of comfort and happiness than the advantages offered by Southern California, that the migration of Eastern people to this sunny land is the result of an artificial causethat merely of advertising—are founded claims. Opinions about wine extributed to Charles should be credited to ope of his young men, who grinds out copy for his paper and gets the old man tangled up in a libel suit now and then. The Sun's liquor opinions cannot be attributed to Dana's famous office cat, because that feline never drinks anything but milk. The young man who grinds out copy 36 days in a year is the guilty "cuss." Laberal-minded journalists will say that this man deserves a square drink once in a while. Unfortunately, however, some of Dana's young men drift into cheap groggeries along Ana street, Park Row They then go to the office and try to give California wine "fits." That's probably California wine "fits." That's probably the secret of the Sun's adverse epinions

The financial discussion is assuming somewhat acute phase throughout the Eastern and Middle Western States. But paign of 1896. Nor is it to be the leading issue. Election day is still eighteen months in the future. The silver question may be virtually disposed of by tional co-operation before the close of the campaign in 1896. But the tariff question was not satisfactorily settled by the abortive efforts of the Fifty-third Con-gress, and it will be the foremost issue of the next campaign. Present efforts to distract public attention from the tariff will not suffice to fool the people when they go to the polls,

A free-trade cotemporary says that "it not be a single prop left for the protection platform to stand upon next year." The protection platform does not, and never did, need any props. It rests upon a solid foundation of economic truth which cannot be shaken by the sophistries of free trade. The elections held since the freetrade party came into power and the peo-ple discovered how they had been fooled by that same party, show that the voters the country know where they are at on the free-trade question.

The people were tricked by demagogues into voting away their birthright in 1892, for a small mess of very sour pottage. The demagogue is again at work. He has taken a new tack, and is now shouting "free coinage" instead of "free But it is easy to distinguish the voice of the demagogue through his mask. The people are still paying the penalty of the deception practiced upon them in 1892. Will they be again imposed upon in 1896?

The silence pervading these mountains and valleys is simply appailing. No more is the warcry of the free-trade Democracy heard hereaway.

At Randolph County Court yesterday I had the pleasure of meeting Gordon Dayton and his aged father, Spencer Dayton. It will be a matter of much interest to the people of Southern California to know that the annihilator of free-trade Wilson is emphastically in favor of an appropriation by Congress for the improvement of San Pedro Harbor in preference to any other place.

THE UNKISSED KISS.

I have kissed the girls a plenty, Aged from one year old to twenty, as better far than honey, I can taste their sweetness yet. But far dearer than the kisses Given me by kindly misses, he ever verdant mem'ry of a kiss I die

For one winsome little fairy, with grace so light and airy, it me ever fondly saying "I'll achieve m purpose yet."

But at length she slyly vanished with the gift for which I famished she left me sadly sighing for the kiss did not get.

Reader, pardon this digression— Does pursuit or does possession greater pleasure bring? I cannot say, and yet I've forgotten many misses Who bestowed on me their kisses, I'll always recollect the girl whose kiss I did not get.

Now, of course there is a moral in this simple story, for all indiscreet young ladies, who will sometimes much regret. That they gave their kiases freely. For they'll find a lover really remember more than all the rest the kias he did not get.

IN ELECTRICITY.

WILL THE ELECTRIC MOTOR SU-PERSEDE STEAM?

NEW YORK, May 1.—(Special Correspondence.) Joseph Wetzler makes the question: "Will the Electric Motor Supersede Steam?" the subject of a recent article. Mr. Wetzler answers the question in the affirmative and expresses his firm belief that all raffroads will be eventually operated electrically. The signs of the coming change are cropping up thick and operated electrically. The signs of the coming change are cropping up thick and fast already. On many short suburban stads, where the traffic is heavy and the trains are run at frequent intervals, conditions exist which foreshadow the future practice in economical electric refirreding. These electric spurs will probably be gradually extended until, in the course of time, the entire time will be adapted to the new order of affairs, and a new generation of railroad officers, who have left the nine-teenth century behind them, will recognize and meet the insistent needs of the new generation of travelers. Among the advantages which electricity offers over steam for the raffroad work of the future, Mr. Wetzler points out that instead of hundreds of individual furnaces, working their steam in hundreds of cylinders—for the most part using the steam under most uneconomical conditions, and then exhausting it into the free air—the electric system involves the placing of power stations at intervals, say, of fifty miles, equipped with the most modern triple or quadruple expansion condensing engines, and utilizing to the fullest extent the heat contained in the coal. Another feature of economy peculiar to electric power distribution, which is directly applicable to railroad work, is that the central electric power station can be built of considerably smaller capacity than the aggregate maximum qapacity of the focomotives of the road. Thus if a division of a double-track railroad, 100 miles in length, had, say, forty trains running at the same litme, cach averaging 500 hirse-power, there would be a total of 20,000 horse-power required in the steam equipped electrically. Mrs. Wetzler shows, it would need a maximum capacity of the focomotives as now made. The matter of speed will offer no difficulty. With the electric locumotive, even of the next few years, people will be able to go quite as fast as they care to, and with care propelled, heated and lighted by electricity on existing steam roads will probably entail a change in

A COMBINED ELECTRIC-LIGHTING STATION AND WATERWORKS.

An ingenious combination of an electric-lighting station and a city waterworks is operating successfully in a small German town. During the day, when the consumption of water is greatest, the station accumulators are charged and the water supply is worked by the steam pump. When the accumulators are charged, and in the morning, before the boilers are heated up, the electrically-driven pump is worked from the accumulators, in case of a large demand for water. In the evening, when the accumulators, in case of a large demand for water. In the evening, when the lathing are turned on, the current is taken direct from the dynamo, and at 11 o'clock, when the street are lamps are cut out, watever further supply of current is necessary is taken from the accumulators. If a fire should occur in the night, a full supply of water is instantly available. On the sounding of the alarm, the attendant at the station starts the electric pump and one compressor. The perfect success of this plan has been proved on several occasions, and the inhabitants of the little town are proud of their compact and efficient plant, which gives them good and chesp lighting, good drinking water, and a sufficient supply of water for all purposes of fire extinction. The station is operated at a very low cost, but by cemploying automatic current regulators, automatic olding apparatus on all the moving parts of the steam engine, and by using ring olding devices on dynamos and motors, the working of the plant is to be so simplified that one engine driver and a stoker can look after the whole installation, even when some proposed extensionare completed.

EFFECT OF BICYCLES ON STREET RALLROAD BARNINGS.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The bicycle epidemic is sweeping over the whole country. It is estimated that during the coming summer the votaries of the wheel in New York atone will number over 200,000. In many cities the bicycle has inaugurated a serious rivalry with the street car, and if Denver the effect has been so unmistakeable that the local street-railway company has had to cut the wages of its employees in order to meet the great reduction in its income. The daily receipts of the car lines have never been so low, and that the drop is caused entirely by the introduction of bicycles is beyond a doubt. On wet days, when the wheels cannot be ridden, the receipts per car invariably run up to over $30 per day.

As soon as the streets dry off, the receipts drop down fully one-half. Formerly the large crowd of invalide and pleasure-seekers, which is constantly pouring into Denver, would take the cars out to the suburbs for their daily outing; now the wheel is used instead. It is estimated that during the past year 600 wheels haye been sold in the city by the local dealers, heaides the large number shipped in by individuals. The estimate of ten thousand wheels in use is protably extremely low. Each of these wheels will take out of the pocket of the street ratilway company, some 20 or 30 cents a day. Taking the low estimate of 20 cents a day. Taking the low estimate of 20 cents a day for the 10,000 wheels, the amount would reach $2000 a day, or $730,000 a year. The contingency which has presented itself in such definite shape in Denver will have to be met by street-car companies in many other cities, and, instead of being abated, the source of deprivation of revenue is likely to become more formidable, especially during the summer months. The use of the bicycle has apparently only just begun to take hold on the popular fancy, and it is prophesied that before long the tanjority of people will just as soon think of being without their bicycles as their watches. WILL TEN VOLTS KILL?

will just as soon think of being without their bicycles as their watches.

WILL TEN VOLTS RILL?

A most important issue has been raised by a correspondent in the columns of a teading electrical journal. One of the laborers in a mine was killed by an electric ahock received while handling an electric mining machine, notwithstanding the fact that the electromotive force on the circuit did not exceed 280 volts. The young man was strong and well built, and a post mortem examination by physicians showed that the brain and heart, and indeed the whole body was sound, and there were no marks to indicate the cause of death. Richard Lamb, whose pioneer work in electrical logging in the Dismal Swamp is familiar in electrical circles, states that too much publicity cannot be given to the fact that even 110 volts will kill, if applied to a bleeding sore, and allowed to remain a few seconds. The fact that 110 volts does not paralyse the nerves, and that therefore the contact can almost invariably be withdrawn at once, is the reason why there are so few records of death, if any, by that voltage. With 280 volts in contact with a bleeding sore upon the hand, a person would be killed almost instantly. Blood is a good conductor of electricity, and the current would be transmitted at once to the heart. For this reason, Mr. Lamb requires all the menoperating his logging and electric canalboat towing calbeways, to wear rubborgloves, to prevent the possibility of contact with a sore, although he uses only 220 volts. Mr. Lamb says he was assured by Nikola Tesla that ten volts applied to a bleeding sore on the hand, would put a man to sleep. Another correspondent believes that the laborer died from fright, and relates how a party of persons having no knowledge of electrical apparatus visited his laboratory to experience the novelty of receiving a static discharge cash. Where it was unexpected the persons nearly swooned from fright, while those expecting it made not the slightent desch. Where it was unexpected the persons nearly swooned

A Monster Plow.

(Stockton Mail:) The Shaw Plow Works have on exhibition at their shop on Market street a new twelve-gang plow, which is probably the largest of its kind ever constructed in this country. It was made especially for George McCauley of Forest Lake, and is designed to turn over the ground for a width of ten feet. The beam on which the plows are fixed is twenty-two feet long and the machine is twenty-eightfeet over all, from end to end. It will be pulled by a traction engine of thirty-horse power. The levers operating on the plow are respectively twenty-four to thirty-six feet long.

plow are respectively twenty-four to thirty-six feet long.

It is expected that a great many more of these plows will be constructed. It is the first one of its kind ever made, and is a revelation to Eastern men. A. B. Far-quahar, a large manufacturer of agricul-tural implements of York, Pa., recently inspected the mammoth plow. "Nobody but a Californian," said he, "would con-struct a plow on such a scale. It is truly wonderful what you people out here can do."

The latest victim of reckless bicycle-riding is Lester Osborne, a reporter of the Evening Express. Mr. Osborne was standing at the intersection of Second and Spring streets yeaterday morning, conversing with Detective Bradish, when a young man on a wheel collided, with him and knocked him down. His hip was so badly injured that he had to be taken home and placed under a doctor's care. The wheelman was elightly hurt, and, unlike most culprits of his kind, he did not run away, but remained to tender his apologies and offer to make what reparation he could for his carelessness.

Chief of Police Glass was knocked down by a wheel at Grand avenue and Seventh street, several days ago, and slightly injured, besides having his dignity ruffled. The report of the Sewer Committee as heretofore published was adopted with the exception of the recommendation in reference to the bid of Frick Bros. for the sewering of a part of Maple avanue, action on which recommendation was deferred till afternoon, it being stated that this was done for the purpose of giving the contractor a hearing.

The Mayor, as requested, returned without his approval an ordinance of intention to improve Twenty-ninth street between Maple avenue and San Pedro street. The ordinance was changed so as to provide for the work to be done under the Vrooman act instead of under the bond act and was adopted in that form.

The recommendation of the Supply Committee as heretofore published that the bill for one-half the rent for telephone for the Free Labor Bursau be approved, was adopted, President Teed and Councilman Stockwell being absent at the time.

A ROAR ABOUT WATER.

A ROAR ABOUT WATER.

A ROAR ABOUT WATER.
Councilman Munson, who is chairman of the Water Supply Committee, stated that there had been a good deal of compilaint in some of the blocks on Spring street that there was not a sufficient supply of water. In some of the buildings it was impossible to get any water at all at certain times of the day in the upper stories and in order to supply it for those stories it was necessary to draw it at the faucets on the lower floors and carry it up.

Notwithstanding, the insufficient supply the City Water Company was charging the same rates. It had been stated on the part of the company that when the new supply system was completed there would be an ample amount furnished, but there appears to be no certainty as to the time at which this new system would be finished, and meantime people were complaining that they could not get water.

A lack of water had also been reported from the family hotels in the neighborhood of Central Park.

On motion the matter was referred to the Water Supply Committee for a report as to what can be done to remedy the situation.

NEW SCHOOL SITES.

Councilman Pessell moved that the Board of Education be requested to furnish the Council with data regarding the sites for school buildings to be erected under for school buildings to be erected under the bond proceedings.

President Teed, who was on the floor, moved to change the motion so as to pro-vide that each member of the Council should confer with the member of the Board of Education from his ward in ref-erence to the matter.

Board of Education from his ward in reference to the matter.
This motion to amend was followed by a pause lasting four or five minutes, in the course of which there appeared to be manifested a certain degree of indecision in regard to what to do in the case. It was finally agreed that each Councilman should confer with the school board member from his ward, and that the two in each instance should furnish the necessary data to the City Cierk for insertion in the official advertisement for bids for sites.

Councilman Pessell, suggested that it might be better to have the form of advertisement approved by the Council before it was published. President Teed inquired of Councilman Pessell what his object was in making such a suggestion, and the lat-it was published. President Teed inquired of Councilman Pessell what his object was in making such a suggestion, and the latter, after a slight indication of hesitation, replied to the effect that, although it might not be necessary, yet it seemed to him that it would be well to do as he had suggested.

President Teed stated that he thought there would be no need of so doing for the reason that the clerk had already been instructed to officially advertise for bids for sites, and all that remained to be done before that would be to furnish him the necessary data. This closed the incident. Councilman Pessell spoke of the recommendation of the Finance Committee which had been adopted, to the effect that $1000 be appropriated for the Fourth of July celebration, as asked for by the committee having in charge the making of arrangemins for the same. He said it appeared that it would be better to reconsider the action of the Council in adopting the recommendation, and instead request the Celebration Committee to present for the approval of the Finance Committee of the Council bills for the celebration to the amount of $1000.

It was agreed to take the action thus suggested, and it was so done, but this action was again reconsidered later in the day.

A CONTRACTOR BARRED.

In the matter of the report of the Sewer Committee in reference to the sewering of a portion of Maple avenue as laid over from the morning session, Councilman Munson stated that Mr. Frick, the contractor mentioned in the report, had declined to come before the Council and make a statement.

The recommendation of the committee was thereupoh adopted, said recommendation being as follows:

"We recommend that all proposals for the construction of a sewer on Maple avenue between Jefferson street and a point twenty-five feet north of the south line of lot 7, block C, of the Martin traot be rejected and that the City Clerk be instructed to readvertise for bids for the same. "Frick Bros, are the lowest bidders for this work, but the city has recently incurred an expense of over $700 for reconstructing the Hollenbeck Arroyo sewer, and as Frick Bros., were the contractors for a portion of the work on which these repairs were found to be necessary, we recommend that no more contracts be awarded to them until they reimburse the city for the repairs on their portion of the work."

The City Engineer presented a report con the matter of the safety of brakes used on street railway cars. The report was a lengthy one, which had been prepared by Frank Van Vieck, consulting engineer.

Summarized, the report states that it was the opinion that each car in operation on a street railway should be equipped with two entirely separate systems of brakes exclusive of the braking which may be done by reversing the motor an an electric car; also that each car ought to be inspected annually by the City Engineer.

The matter of the compilications which had arisen over the issue of refunding bourds was called up, and it was proposed that it would be avisable to send the City Attorney to New York to look after the interests of the city in the matter. To do this, it was stated, would involve less expense than the amount of telegraphing which would otherwise be necessary. After a brief discussion of the question it was decided that the necessary after.

rnese actions were brought by the Southern Pacific Company to determine conflicting claims to parts of odd sections of land situated within the primary or twonty-mile limits along the line of its road. The only question involved was whether the lands patented to the defendants were excluded from, or passed by, the grant made from the government, by act of Congress on March 3, 1871. As they were excluded from the limits of the Jurupa grant of September 28, 1839, the court holds that they were not public hands within the meaning of the grant to the railroad company.

Judge Ross rendered a very lengthy opinion in the case of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. Otto Groock et al., an action to quiest title to certain lands in Tulare county, which was recently submitted on demurrer. The complainant having slept upon its rights for six and exa-haif years before bringing suit, the demurrer to the complaint is sustained by the court, thus virtually disposing of the matter in favor of the defendants.

Judge Wellborn also rendered an opinion in the Circuit Court yesterday in the case of W. J. Brodnick, as receiver of the First National Bank of San Bernardipo, vs. Joseph Brown. The matter was submitted upon an ex-parte motion for an order directing the Marwhal to open a certain box which he attached, but which defendant refused to unlock, in order to admit of his returning an inventory of its contents, claiming that it was exempt from execution. The court, being unable to find any suthority or precedent for such an order, and the responsibility of lawfully executing an attachment resting solely upon the Marshal, the motion is delied. In the United States District Court yesterday morning. Judge Wellborn approved the claim of Frank P. Flint, Esq. to the extent of $1000, for services while acting as marshal during the strike excitement in July last.

Dr. Louise Harvey gave an admirable and practical paper on "Sanitation," which she said is a subject that every housewife and mother should thorourply underward. The morality of a child is largely dependent on the physical condition of the child, it is one of the vital questions that women should know all about sewer construction, and when everything in and about the home is in good sanitary condition. She should understand the underlying science. Dr. Harvey then gave a brief execth of the consents of a book on "Practical Hygiene," which begins with the causes of disease. It was earnestly recommended that food be thoroughly investigated, as nearly every article is adulterated. If chemistry were understood, foods could be easily tested. The water supply should also be vigorously looked after, and, where it is not pure, it should be distilled. The questions of ventilation, of pipes, and of the building of houses should all be thoroughly understood.

The last paper on the programme was a bright and entertaining dissertation on "The New Man," by Miss Alice Parsons, in which has said: "The poor new man, how can he be made to match the new woman? Do you desire he should? Do you want your husband, father, brother or lover to admire the trousered female bicycle rider? Shall he be content to see his womankind strive with men for positions, offices and labors of every kind? Shall he lose his reverence for women, his old-fashioned ideas of protecting the home circle against the storms that beat in the outer world? Shall he gradually lose his finer chivalrous instincts, and become a mere selfish, grasping person, with no sense of responsibility for his family? Are hood?

'The husband of the new woman in likely to become that peculiar anomaly stigmatized as 'Miss Nouvelle Femme's Husband.'

A dismal picture was then drawn of him, as the result of the new woman's influence.

A diamal picture was then drawn of him, as the result of the new woman's influence.

Would there be so many miserable life failures if true men married true women, each the complement of the other? Does the present new woman promise an enmobiling influence over the other sex, and is this to be ignored in our ardest pursuit of the advancement of women? While we believe many important and desirable changes will take place for the better protection of woman, we must not lose sight of the fact that no changes will better women if men are not thereby made nobler and purer. Is there any force in life so compelling as mutual attraction? Let us boware how we cheapen this God-given power. Let not women forget their potent silent influence in their wild desire for what may be impotent public influence.

Another type of our "new man" is the impercinent smart youth of today, who knows no reverence for God or family. The day is past when all that a woman could do was to "get to a nunnery" if she did not marry, but there is great danger of her thinking so much of herself, her right, her needs, that she will grow selfish, and neglect the cultivation of the higher nature of man, a province pecultarly hers. ing by Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. Herman Jacoby. The decorations were all in yellow, mustard being used artistically about the mantels and chandeliers. The first part of the afternoon was devoted to Trilby tableaux, in which Miss Leits Edelman, who is a beautiful girl, and Miss Kalisher, as Little Billee, participated. The programme was as follows: Trilby in the Latin Quartier, Trilby pease, Trilby as La Svengail, Death of Trilby a Trilby comedy in four scenes and Trilby of the slums. The parts were excellently done. The latter part of the afternoon was devoted to whist, at which the first prise was a handsome bonbon spoon with a Trilby foot on the handle, and the second a Trilby paper-cutter. The programme and score cards were in the form of a dainty foot, and were exquisitely done. Among the guests were! Mmes. Edelman, John Kahn, Rosenstoin; Misses Frida Hellman, Blum, Emma Newmark, Emma Kiein, Florence Levanthal, Lecantine Schwartschild, Leah Hellman, Lineberg, Brownstein, Prager, Louis, Evelyn Hamburger and many others.

AN EVENING OUT OF DOORS.

Miss Emma Mulkey entertained a few of her friends last evening in a unique and delightful way at her home on Eightsenth street. The garden was lighted with flaming torches and the old-time games that used to delight the hearts of the old-time children were indulged in. Later in the evening dancing was enjoyed in the large drawing-rooms, where the floors were canvased. The decorations were extremely pretty, quantities of cool greens being used, with pink popples and roses. In the dining-room sprays of golden honeysuckle were effectigely arranged. Among the invited guests were: Mmes. Fitch and Ashley; Misses Whittaker, Rifenberick, Kate. Stevens, Grace Stevens, Roas Roth, Louiss Hoyt, Cook, Adele Butterworth, D'Artois, Anna Tufts; Messes. F. Miss Alden gave an informal and charming musicale last evening, at her home on Twenty-third street, at which she entertained a few of her friends, before her departure for the East. Miss Alden was assisted in receiving by Miss Shirley and Miss Bessie Ellis. The decorations were extremely artistic; in the drawing-room the mantel was massed with La Marque Poses, and branches of the roses and airy sprays of asparagus plumosus trailed about in careless grace. The fireplace was filled with dainty green and white ribbon grass, which, with scarlet likes, also filled a huge jar. Branches of the roses were caught above the doors and pictures. In the ifbrary La France roses overflowed great baskets wreathed with the feathery asparagus. The dining-room was decorated with a profusion of hybrid roses and in the reception-hall were more roses. Punch was served from a large bowl in a corner of the hall. A delightful musical programme was rendered by Mrs. J. Bond Francisco, Mrs. A. C. Jones, Miss Bessie Ellis, Mr. Ellis and Mr. Meifarland. The Robagilati Quintette from Redondo rendered some of their fascinating selections. The ladles who participated in the programme were each presented with a lovely cluster of carnations.

Last Sunday a Chinaman came to the station and asked Clerk Gridley for the number of a certain house on Hill street, which the obliging clerk marked down on the margin of one of the Chinese lottery tickets and handed to the Mongolian. The latter jumped back at sight of it as though it were a snake, and exclaimed:

"Wha's the malier with you? Wha' for you givee me lot ticket? You wantee gettee me allested? Wha' for?"

It did not take the astonished clerk long to comprehend the cause of John's outbreak. There have been a good many arrests of Chinamen of late for having lottery tickets in their possession, and the willy heathen suspected that Desk Sergeant Gridley was putting up a job on him when he handed him the ticket with the address marked on that he inquired for. Gridley had to put the number on a piece of white paper before the celestial would take it, so afraid was he of being arrested if he had a lottery ticket in his possession.

The Thousands Who Flocked to the Beaches.

Arrangements Are Now Being Made to Handle the Sugar Beet Crop.

Party to the North—The On-tario Road—Movements of Prominent Officials.

The railroad companies report that the business yesterday to Santa Monica was something phenomenal. The Southern Pacific "fiyer" which left the Arcade Depot at 9:20 o'clock was made up with eight coaches, but before starting time had arrived it was found necessary to add three more to the train to accommodate those who left at that hour. The train was pulled by one of the company's giant mountain locomotives and as that train made the run through without stops it only took thirty minutes to land the eleven coaches of passengers on the Santa Monica beach. That train carried a few over 700 passengers. The next one over that line left ten minutes later and carried off 250 mere people and then in just fifteen minutes another train was started cut which carried 500 passengers, so that in less than an hour over 1500 people left the Arcade Depot for the beach. Two hours and a half later another train was ready; which took a load of 500 more, making in 'all some 2000 passengers who left by the Southern Pacific for Santa Monica. The cool breezes from the ocean ner a powerful attraction on a warm day, to say nothing of the fun to be had on the beach and the dips in the sea.

FRANCISCO, May 13.—The bonds of the Los Angeles Consolidated Electric Railway Company have issued a formal notice to the trustees of the road, demanding that the electric railway system be sold to satisfy their claims. In complisnce with the notice of the bond-holders the trustees have served a notice upon the company demanding, on behalf of the holders of the bonds, payment of the principal and all the accrued interest. Upon the failure of the company to meet the demand, the trustees will sell the road to the highest bidder. The trustees will advertise the road for sale and ask for bids. The bondholders, or rather the company organized by the bondholders for the purpose of securing control of the road, will probably secure the property. This means the transfer of practically the entire electric railway system of Los Angeles. Electric Railway Company have issued a SOUTHERN PACIFIC TO PASADENA. Grant Bros., the contractors, have a large force of men and teams at work grading the line for the Southern Pacific large force of men and teams at work grading the line for the Southern Pacific Company's branch road to Pasadena. The ties and rails of the old narrow-guage road have been taken up to be transported elsewhere. The graders are now working at the part of the road nearest the junction with the main line at the station of Shorb. Contrary to early expectations, the track will not be built wholly on the old road-bed of the San Gabriel Valley Rapid Transit road, but for nearly one-half the distance between Shorbs and Raymond an entirely new line will be followed, some distance from the old narrow-guage and more direct. The old line branched off the Monrovia road at Alhambra, and followed a serpentine course to the foot or the Raymond hill. The new route starts from the main line about half a mile west of the junction of the Monrovia branch, and paralleling that line some little distance runs directly past the Shorb winery, and in a nearly direct line to Raymond and Pasadena. Some of the curves of the old road are to be straightened and the line made as near straight as possible. The new material for track-laying stands upon the siding at Shorb, and is the same class as is used on the Southern Pacific main line, indicating the company's intention of using the branch line for heavy traffic and plenty of it.

OREGON SHORT LINE.

DENVER (Colo.) May 13.—From private information received in this city there seems to be no doubt that the appointment of, a separate receiver for the Oregon Short Line will be made, and that the selection of Egan will be confirmed. It seems that the Union Pacific is trying to fix up the matter with the Central Trust Company, or at least Omaha parties are interesting themselves for the Union Pacific to prevent the appointment of a receiver, as, in case one is finally selected, the Northwest will be open to the manufacturing trade of Denver and Pueblo, of which the Omaha manufacturers have always had absolute control. It is understood that the judge has stated that if the trust company will agree to take care of the interest overdue and the interest in future accruing on securities, he will confirm the appointment on exhibit "A." It is understood the trust company is willing to pay all interest.

Division Superintendent Muir of the Southern Pacific Company is in receipt of a letter from the Ontario Electric Company of Ontario, stating it intends laying an electric-railway track in that city, and, as the track will cross the lines of the Southern Pacific, the electric company wants to know at what height it will be necessary to string the trolley wires.

The Southern Pacific is commencing to get its sugar-beet-car equipments for the approaching season in order, so that it may be in a position to handle the enormous crop of sugar beets which will be ready in about one mouth from the present time. A large proportion of the crop has to be hauled from Anaheim and Buena Park to Chino, where the factory is situated. The quantity to come from Anaheim is estimated at 15,000 tons and from Buena Park 10,000 tons. The factory at Chino expects to begin operations about July 1. It will crush about eight hundred tons daily, of which 500 tons each day will come from Anaheim and Buena Park.

SAD MISFORTUNE OF A BRAKE-MAN TOURIST.

Found Unconscious on the Southern Pacific Track Near River Sta-tion With Probably Fatal Injuries.

Shortly after the Santa Barbara train came in last night, about 10:30 o'clock, Officer Sparks found a man lying uncon-scious between the rails of the Southern Pacific track, near River station, on San Fernando street. He telephoned for the petrol wagon and Sergt. Hospital, where Police Surgeon Bryant was in attendance and took charge of the case.

The victim was a young man, apparently not over 20 years of age. An examination disclosed the fact that his ksull was broken at the top and a deep gash was cut in the back of his head. Dr. Bryant sewed up the cut and removed a plece of his skull about three inches in diameter. At 2 o'clock this morning he had not yet regained consciousness and his ultimate recovery was considered very doubtful.

The injured man is supposed to have fallen off a brakebeam or the platform of a moving train. He wore a corduror suit and leggings, and carried a knapsack containing some changes of underclothes, a sketch-book, subscription blanks for the Ladies' Home Journal and the American Agriculturist, and various trinkets. A small empty purse had the inscription, in ink, "Alva Porter Moore, Santa Rosa." This is the only clew to his identity. among his effects, also, is an abbreviated diary of his movements for the past thirty days or more, but exact dates are ont given. The diary is kept on loose sheets of paper, and shows that he left Oakland more tha a'month ago o a tramp tramp down the coast, sometimes traveling afoot and at other times beating his way on trains. He mentions securing an occasional subscription for the papers he was canvassing for, and performing various odd jobs along the way for his meals. He also mentions falling in with tramps of various nationalities, sleping in barns, etc. He was in Santa Barbara during the flower festival. At Santa Crus and Carpinteria he met relative. The last entry in the diary was made at Satacoy, and he appears to have beat his way from there to Los Angeles on last night's Santa Barbara train, falling off or being thrown off as the train entered the city. Bich Finds in the San Bernardino Range—Reports from Vander-bilt District—Borate De-posits—Stockton Hill.

A report from San Bernardino says that at the Rose mine, three miles from the Morengo King, beyond Bear Valley, they are working a large force of men in a seven-foot vein, 400 feet down, in which there is a strip about twelve inches in width which is yielding from $300 to $500 work has been resumed, mys a Riverside correspondent, on the old Gavilan mine, owned by a syndicate of English capitalists. The same writer says that although considerable bulkton has been shipped from the Biggs mine, near Winchester, only a small portion of the top of the ledge has been worked, and preparations are under way for carrying on the work on a harger scale.

Several new strikes are reported in the Roe gold camp, east of Warner's, San Diego county, and mining men are beginning to show an interest in the district. A strike is reported, says the Perris Record, about a mile south of the Santa Rosa mine. At a depth of twelve feet the ledge discovered opened out to a width of six feet. One assay of the ore went to $130, and another as high as $400 per ton. As soon as the fact became known the country for a distance of 12,000 feet all around was taken up.

The new Huntington mill at Mornigomery, in the Vanderbilt district, is completed and the old one repaired. Both are running to their full capacity on ore from the Johnnie mine.

The Times-Index of San Bernardino relams that gold was discovered in the sound of gold to the Bast from California came from that range of mountains. The shipment amounted to over $1000, and the gold was remarkable for 6ts purity. It also says that the first discovery of gold in the northern part of the State by Marshall. It says the precious metal was discovered in the San Bernardino range as early as 1841, and that the first shipment for other running to very $1000, and the gold was remarkable for 6ts purity. It also says that the first discovery of gold in California. It is a master of history that the first discovery of gold in California was made on Piru Creek, then in Liss Angeles county, but now in Ventura. The San Bernardino paper appears to have got the location wrong.

Mines in the Calico district are reported working to their full capacity, and the thirty-stamp mill is kept running day and night.

Some borax deposits have been partially developed near Dagget, San Berna

12, from a prospecting tour, and have located a gold-bearing quarts mine in the Montenegro district, which they have named the "Leoti."

R is located on base line, about 120 miles east of here, one mile northwest of the McKinley Bril mine, two miles coutheast of Virginia Dale, thirty-five miles from Bagdad, on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, and about fifty miles from the Southern Pacific, and is situated in this county, about twenty miles from the celebrated McHaney mines, with plenty of water within five miles. It is a different fedge and rock from the latter, and is evidently a portion of the ledge of the Supplymene, located from one-fourth to half a mile from it, where the boys are down 110 feet in a rich seven-foot vein, that averages $55 per ton, though there are many places where they take out ore that runs up to $1500 per ton. The Leoti commences at the top of the mountain and runs down, the ledge showing nearly the whole of the 1200 feet of the claim, and the samples, chipped off the surface rock, which is a three-foot vein, assay $225 per ton. Steep is the mountain at that point that the end of a tunnel run in 500 feet at the bottom of the claim would be 1000 feet from a general thing, the names of foreign artists present come difficulty in proxumeing correctly by the Angio-Saxon, but no foreigner ever insided upon our shores whose name has tend such a great number of interpretations as that of Yeaye. Liege, Belguim, the workshop of violins, was Yasye's birthplace; there, and in the surrounding country the people of this mater had settled for more than two hundred years. The first of the family was remed Issiah, in French Iss, Issia. From this we have the modern Yeaye. The family years show that not a single male member of the family has been born without musical gentus, and all have been noted. Yasye's father was a well-known conductor and musican, and Yasye atudied his first lessons with him.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES. Just So!

(Hush! hush! here comes the Parthenogenesis, and he will catch you if he can:)
SANTA ANA, May 13, 1895.—(To the Editor of The Times:) In your issue of yesterday there appeared, under the heading of "Parthenogenesis Among Plants," a synopsis of a paper read at the Escondido pomological meeting by Prof. A. J. Cook, in which the following occurs:

"The navel orange, like some vegetables, cucurbits, egg plants, etc., frunt without pollen, but always bears seedless fruit, or fruit with small, abortive, imperfect seeds. These are plant examples of parthenogenesis."

While not wishing to oppose any of the learned professor's conclusions, I nevertheless desire to take exception to his use, or misuse, of the term, parthenogenesis, as applied to the development without polification of the fruits mentioned.

The term "parthenogenesis" can only be tioned.

The term 'parthenogenesis' can only be properly made use of to express that property inherent in the females of some animals and plants—as in some of the arthropods and among the algae and fungi-which enables them to reproduce their species, for a more or less lengthened period, without the aid of the male clement. This synoperty certainly does not which enables them to reproduce their species, for a more or less lengthened period, without the aid of the male clement. This property certainly does not exist in any of the higher forms of vegetable life, such as the plants mentioned by Prof. Cook.

Upon consideration of the subject, it must be admitted that the mere enlargement of the fruit of the navel orange, its acquisition of sugar and organic acids, is not a case in point, since there is no new germ produced. As well might we call the laying of an egg by a young pullet by that name. Here, too, there is no fertilization. In the pullet's egg we see an enlarged cell; in the unfertilized navel orange we have many cells produced by cell division; but in neither case can there be a reproduction of the species, which alone constitutes parthenogenesis.

Very respectfully,

COVINA (Cal.,) May 12, 1894.—(To the Shiror of The Times:) In glancing over the columns of religious intelligence in for the columns of religious intelligence in the columns of th of all mankind cannot be different from that of Jesus. This fact will help us when we turn to St. Paul's writings. (See I Cor., xv.)

And now to the testimony: The risen life of Jesus is plainly very different from His life before the crueffixion. He appears suddenly, the doors being locked; He goes out of their sight as mysteriously, and, though He eats, it is evidently only to prove to the disciples that it is no vision they see. Who shall deny that the bread He ate was transformed by the power "whereby He is able to subdue all things?" These are but incidents which could be multiplied. Turning to the episties, who can forget the wonderful words of Paul? Who has there ever been so firm in his faith, so triumphant in view of death, so quick to rebuke superstition in religion? "Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened except it die." So also is the resurrection of the dead: "There is a natural body and there is a spiritual body."

I cannot see how those who candidly read this wonderful chapter (I. Cor., xv) can insist that "the faith once delivered to the saints" is denied by holding to a spiritual and not to a carnal resurrection.

DIOCESAN CONVENTION.

THE EPISCOPALS OF THE STATE WILL MEET TODAY.

Certain Pastoral That is Likely to Receive More Than Ordinary Attention — Influence on General Convention

The Episcopal Church in California will hold its diocean convention in this city this week, beginning at 10:30 today. The Episcopal Church, owing to its more compact organization and formularies of doctrine and worship, obtains considerable attention when its legislatures are in session. Ordinarily not very much of general interest attaches to its dioceson councils, they being engaged mainly with certain annual routine business that has no espeannual routine business that has no especial attraction for outsiders. In the Gen eral Convention of this church, nowever, which is the law-making body for the whole church, subjects are dikely to be agitated which have a more general interest for all Christian people. The diocesan councils appoint delegates to this General Convention, which fact really gives their proceedings, in this respect, much importance.

Convention, which fact really gives their proceedings, in this respect, much importance.

In the General Convention next fait the late pastoral of the bishop will be almost sure to receive some attention, if it does create some excitement. It is an open secret that a good deal of disastisfaction has been expressed at the issuing of their pastoral by those parties at whom it was directly aimed, or by persons in sympathy with them. Some objection is made to the action of the bishops in issuing it. One of the signers of the pastoral, Bishop Potter, has seen fit to question the degree of value attaching to it, "if it has any." Another prominent rector of New York city, Dr. William R. Huntington of Grace Church, has expressed the wish that there may not be "any more evolution of bishops in council." The rectors of two prominent partishes in Boston—the rector of Trinlty Church, Phillips Brooks former parish, and Rev. Leighton Park, refrained from reading the pastoral to their congregations. This, taken with the late utterances of Rev. Heber Newton in New York, and the threat of presenting him for trial, shows that the horizon, just on the eve of the coming General Convention, is not altogether free from clouds.

This matter will press all the more strenuously on the minds of the members of the California convention, because of the action of other dioceses at this time. Thus, in the Massachusetts convention, it is learned from an editorial in the Boston Transcript, there will be an earnest effort to disfodge the present standing committee of the diocese, who prevented the ordination of some young men who were unsound in the fundamental doctrines of the church in the very affair which led, among other things, to the promuigating of the General Convention will be similarly conscituted.

Although, then, the one great sborbing business of the California convention actituted.

Although, then, the one great absorbing business of the California convention which meets in this city is the question of the division of the diocese, this other and, perhaps, more weighty matter will not be likely to be forgotten.

Two to One.

ENGLAND'S CHANCES FOR THE

ENGLAND'S CHANCES FOR THE YACHT RACE.

Young Andrew Barclay Walker, who is famous as the owner of the yacht Alisa, will probably give way to the elequence of Lord Dunraven and send his fleet cutter to America to race against the Valkyrie III to see which shall have the honor of racing the Defender (or some other Yankee yacht) for the cup, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. Yachtsmen on this side of the water who are well posted regard that as almost certain. They argue that Lord Dunraven had in mind the possibility of the Alisa being a faster boat than the Valkyrie III when he arranged with the Cup Committee that some yacht belonging to the Royal Yacht Squadron could come over to try for the cup. Many local yachtsmen have more fear of the Alisa than of the Valkyrie III. They know of her great speed in a light or heavy breeze, and as yet no one knows anything of the Valkyrie III. Of course, Lord Dunraven would rather have the Valkyrie III meet the American yacht, but his determination is to win the cup with some British boat, and his judgment in providing two strings to Johnny Bull's bow cannot be questioned. Should the Alisa and Valkyrie III come over here to sail the trial races the programme for the international trial and cup races will be something like this: In August the Defender, Vigilant and Jubilee will meet of Newport to select a cup defender. Later the Valkyrie III and Alisa will meet of Sandy Hook to decide which is the superior cutter. On September 7 the two winning boats will meet to race for the cup, the winner of two out of three races to be the victor.

Again does Lord Dunraven prove his judgment and foresight by selecting the cup course as the proper place for the trial races. His Lordship says that the Alisa and Valkyrie III ough to meet in the same waters where the race is to be saffed, and he is right. It is there they can

A question that will involve the appointment and disappointment of many a teacher in Arizona is as to whether the teacher in Arizona is as to whether the school trustees elected this year will have a say in the patronage of their offices, or whether the holdover trustees, whose terms do not expire till June, will make the appointments. Superintendent of Public Instruction Netherton has asked Atty-Gen. Satterwhite for a written opinion in the matter—his interpretation of the school act of the last Legislature. The opinion, and he gives the whys and wherefores, is that the new trustees shall have a say in the appointments, the appointments to be made in June, or after the expiration of the term of the trustees elected three years ago.

AFTER THE GOVERNOR AGAIN.

4t-is told of President Cleveland that he has declared Arizona to be the most troub-lesome bailiwick in his jurisdiction. The has declared Arizona to be the most troublesome baillwick in his jurisdiction. The same old row, with variations, keeps bobing up, of Hughes and anti-Hughes, the ins and outs of the Territorial administration, and all a fight between Democrats. Charges derogatory, and good characters offsetting the same, have been filed galore with the Interior Department. Every few weeks, till it has become the veriest chesting the same, have been filed galore with the Interior Department. Every few weeks, till it has been given out, that "Hughes is a goner this time sure." Still he staid on and on, though there must have been something back of it, judging from the remarks of the President. And now it is out that the Governor is a goner again. This is based on the fact that Judge Thomas Oliver of Georgia, standing mighty close to the throne of the powers that be at Washington, is in Phoenix. His presence is due to an appointment of Secretary Hoke Smith, a sort of "paramount commissioner," as it were, to Arizona, to investigate the troubles in the Federal departments in Arizona. According to private advices, upon his report will the decision of the Interior Department rest. Judge Oliver's mission did not become apparent for several days, but now seems to be known to every holder of a commission in Arizona. Perhaps this will account for the presence in this city yesterday from Tucson of Surveyor-General Manning, Marshal Meade. Atty.-Gen. Satterwhite, ex-Atty.-Gen. Frank Heney and others interested. Both sides are having their say. When his report is in and acted upon, once and for all, then may the troubled Clevland hope to hear from relentless Arizona no more.

TUCSON.

TUCSON, May 11 .- (Special Correspondence.) The unhallowed precincts of Gay Alley have been the scene of new strife. It occurred at the quarters there of Miss Hattle Easley, colored, with reputation for virtue ditto, over the smiles and favors of that damsel, and resulted in the killing of that damsel, and resulted in the killing of William Raglen, also colored, by his brother John. It occurred at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning. It seems that the woman was the mistress of the murderer, John. She had, prior to the shooting, had William arrested for breaking a chair over her head, she objecting to the spoiling of good furniture. He was released just before the shooting. John and the woman were together, the door double-locked and barred, fearful of William's release and return. Soon a familiar voice was heard return. Soon a familiar voice was heard and William's No. 10's were kicking in the door. William entered, a six-shooter in his hand that looked as big as a cannon to the terrified couple. The couple were in bed and he opened fire on them. John sprang from the bed and tried to capture the gun. Then he thought of a weapon of his own under the pillow, and made a dive for that. With this the fire was returned, the intruder losing a finger with one bullet and stopping another with his abdomen. That quenched William's thirst for gore and he departed, leaving his brother still in possession of the fort and the lady. He then went from saloon to saloon, drinking and enjoying the attention his wounds attracted. Finally a carriage was called and he was taken to the hospital. There his injuries were found to be fatal. He died yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. He is reputed to be a hard case, an ex-convict of Texas, who killed two men in that State. Gawregary appeared in the Police Court yesterday and pleaded guilty to the charge of petty larceny. He explained that he was out of the city yesterday and, returning late at night, found that he had no feed for his horses. He therefore simply went to the field to "borrow" a little hay, expecting to settle for it when he met the owner. Gawregary had Senator Del Valle to vouch for his previous good character, and claimed that this was his first offense. Justice Owens fined him $20, which he paid and seemed to be glad to get off so easily. The complaint against Charles Redona, arrested several days ago for stealing some of McGaugh's hay, was dismissed on motion of the Deputy District Attorney. It appears that Redona was merety driving a team for other parties who stole the hay, and will testify against them. Warrants for the real culprits are said-to have been issued.

THE CITY COUNCIL MEET IN REGULAR SESSION.

Another Narrow Escape at a Railroad Crossing—A New Raymond Proposal.

TASADENA, May 13.—(Special Correspondence.) The City Council met in regular season this afternoon, Trustees Lukens and Washburn and President Cox in their places. This was the time set for the hearing of the protests upon the proposed widening of Raymond averse and the inclusion of Summit avenue in the assessment district therefor. There was a delegation present from Summit avenue, and their spokesman, Dr. Smith, emphatically seconded the written protest of property-owners upon that thoroughfare against the including of Summit avenue in the assessment, as it was asserted that Summit avenue proposed, in course of time, the backers of the course of the c attention of the Council was a petifor a public park, presented by Mr.

fus and signed by many representative tens of Pasadena. In bringing the ter before the board, Mr. Hugus stated
t Pasadena, with all of its attractions, like a picture without a frame, or a el wishout a setting. That frame or cling, was a public park, made as beauil as such a park could be adorned, then they might boast of being a shed city. He asked that the questo be put to popular vote, and the necesy bonds issued for the purpose. Atney Arthur gave it as his opinion that re was nothing in the law that authoris for cities of the sixth class, and it s suggested that a bill be introduced the next Legislature to remedy Pasata's disability in that direction, umong the minor matters brought bee the Council were petitions for the the establishment of the official grade in the rear of the hotel tract, and a request for a permit to erect a shelter for horses near the business center. All these were granted. Bids for street work were awarded as follows: Sewer work on Fair Oaks avenue, to S. J. Edwards, who offered the lowest bid for the same, 0227; etreet work on Fair Oaks avenue, to Dovey & Fain; the work on Congress attreet, to John Showalter, and that on De Lacy street was awarded to E. H. Smith. The grade of Hudson avenue was declared officially established, and the work of planting shade trees was ordered.

of those articles.

ANOTHER NARROW ESCAPE.

Again the fact has been brought before the minds of the people, that Pasadena has urgent need of automatic gates at the railway crossings, and the warning is given that if some such provision is not made for the safety of the public, accidents of a harrowing nature will certainly happen. As T. A. Rice of the Allen ranch was driving along Grove street this afternoon, he was fairly upon the tracks of the Terminal Railway, before he noticed a train so closs to him that he knew a wreck was inevitable. He gave his horse a smart cut with his whip, and then jumped for his life. The locornotive struck the rear end of the wagon before Mr. Rice's feet touched the ground, and considerably damaged it. His horse escaped. Mr. Rice did not hear the bell of the locomotive, and as the train was going down grade, it was making very little noise. The bell of the engine was ringing, but Rice did not hear it, perhaps on account of the noise made by the ratilling of the wagon, but the engineer of the train did not blow his whistle for the crossing as, it is said by an eye-witness of the accident who questioned him about the subject, it is not his duty to whistle at that particular crossing. He did blow the whistle when he saw that an accident was about to take place, but too late to be of any benefit to Mr. Rice. It is impossible, it seems, to guard against such occurrences, except by a system of automatic electric signals, such as are used largely in the East, by the gates.

THE NEW RAYMOND. ANOTHER NARROW ESCAPE.

THE NEW RAYMOND.

The modified proposition regarding the Raymond Hotel calls for the issue of bonds to the amount of $150,000. These bonds are to be divided into denominations of $1000, and $70,000 worth will run for twenty years, the remainder being payable in sums of $5000 each year after the rist four years, interest to be paid semi-annually at the rate of 5 per cent. Mr.

Raymond will pay $50,000 into the hands of the trustees, and the subscribers agree to pay for their bonds when $150,000 has been subscribed, their security to be the trust deed to the entire Raymond Hotel property. Unless the amount is subscribed before July 1 all subscriptions shall be null and void.

CCMPETITIVE DRILL.

The regular monthly drill of Co. B Saturday evening was an interesting affair to the boys, their sweethearts and their friends, because of the presence of Col. Schreiber and Major-elect Halpin, and because it was the occasion of the award of medals for technical excellence in the manual. It was under the auspices of Capt. ual. It was under the auspices of Capt. Bangham, who is winning an enviable reputation as a drillmaster, and who was highly complimented by his superior upon the efficiency of his men, and his manner of handling the company's affairs. There, was some fine work done by the company, and the drilling was witnessed by a crowd which tested to the atmost the capacity of the armory. Privates Keene and Barnwald were awarded first and second medal, respectively, and Sergt. Kinney was awarded the medal in the non-commissioned-officer class. Ool. Schreiber presided over the presentation, and made a was awarded the medal in the non-commissioned-officer class. Col. Schreiber presided over the presentation, and made a neat speech to the company, which had "fallen in" under Sergt. Lippincott, and that the colonel was highly pleased was evidenced by the strain in which he commended the company. The fancy drilling by Sergt. Garlick and Capt. Griswold elleted much applause. Major-elect Halpin, Col. Schreiber and Lieut. Miller acted as judges, and their award met with general spproval. After the formal programme was concluded, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

At the Sierra Madre Town Hall Saturday evening, there was a pleasant musicale, in which a number of Pasadena's young people participated. Samuel Hahey was warmer today than he has been for many a day, although the prevailing weather in Pasadena was delightfully cool. He expressed his sentiments in no very uncertain terms, when he was brought before Recorder Rossiter and fined the customary $5 for leaving his horse unhitched.

The progress of work on the gap between Elwood and Guadalupe is necessarily slow, owing to the difficulties encountered. The abutments for the bridge over the Santa Maria River are completed and work has begun on the superstructure. The machinery for excavating the abutments is now in progress of removal to the Santa Ynez River, where the engineers are at work exploiting for the bridge which is to span the mouth of that river. The bridge will be at the mouth of the river and subject to the high tides. The bridge across San Antonio or Los Alamos Creek will be fashioned after the Steiner Creek bridge, but not quite so long as that one. It will be 680 feet long and 100 feet high. The work on the eastern or northern approach to Shuman Canyon is nearly finished. About five hundred men are at work in the pass, and they soon will be transferred to the south side. The engineers now in advance of the work are nearing Gaviota from which place they get their mail. The result of their work is tabulated every Saturday night, so that contracts can and may be tel at any moment from the Santa Ynez River to Gaviota.

SANTA ANA, May 13.—(Special Corre-pondence.) At the present time there is considerable anxiety being manifested here smoon the residence of this portion of the consecrative manery of the sportion of the county in the resilence attuation. The actions of the Southern Pacific officials are especially interesting, inasmuch as it has been reported here that that company proposes to come through the city on Fourth street, if it can get control of the street-car franchise. Mr. Bundy, president of the street-car company, stated to the Times representative a few days ago that such a proposition was not at all impossible, and admitted that several of the Southern Pacific officials had been to see him recently in reference to obtaining a right-of-way through the city.

EVERYBODY TO SEE THE RACE.

A petition was circulated today among the business houses, and was being signed liberally, to close their doors Wednesday afternoon of this week, between the hours of I and 3 o'clock, in order that everybody could go out to the recetrack to see the sensational race between Prince, the champion long-distance cyclist, and Klamath (record 2:12%,) in a best two in three half-mile dashes. This race promises to be one of the prettiest of its kind ever given in Southern California, as the horse is very fast, especially for a half.

Mr. Raymond, Klamath's owner, stated today that if the "bike" won the boy would have to do the halves in very close to one minute. Prime is, of course, conceded a wind-break to be drawn by a runner attached to a light suffix.

IT WAS ONLY A BLUFF. EVERYBODY TO SEE THE RACE.

IT WAS ONLY A BLUFF. IT WAS ONLY A BLUFF.

The contemplated removing of the Western Union Telegraph Company at Anaheim seems, after sil, to have been only a bluff on the part of the company to worry the citizens of Anaheim. The company seems willing enough now to remain, and from recent developments the indications are that R never had very much of an idea of leaving. Mr. Jaynes of San Francisco has telegraphed to the local operator at Anaheim to keep the office open until further notice. Had the Western Union left the Postsi Company would have lost no time in establishing fixelf in the field.

Indian Liquor Case Trial of a Cy-clist—Other News.

POMONA, May 18.—(Special Correspondence.) Inquiry among the local officials of Pomona elicits the fact that in the case of George Kirsch, who, it will be remembered by The Times readers, was arrested on Saturday night in this city by Marshal Lorbeer for obtaining liquor for an Indian, the charge has been changed to that of felony, so that the courts here might have jurisdiction instead of making is necessary to be tried in the Federal Court. It is said the change was made by advice of the District Attorney. The officers claim that they have been cognizant for some time that whisty was being obtained in this manner by the Indians, but could not drop onto any clew that would lead to the party guilty of the act until on this occasion. The trial, it is said, has been set for next Thursday in Justice Barnes's court.

The bicycle case, A. B. Young appearing for the defendant, Arthur Baynham and City Attorney Owen for the prosecution. came up for a hearing this merning before Recorder Youngs without a jury. The complaint was that the defendant had violated ordinance No. 120 in that on Saturday night, May 11, he rode his bicycle within the city limits, neglecting to have a lighted lantern attached thereto. To this a demurrer was interposed by the defense, quoting authorities and submitting argu-POMONA, May 18 .- (Special Correspond night, May II, he rode his bicycle within the city limits, neglecting to have a lighted lantern attached thereto. To this a demurrer was interposed by the defense, quoting authorities and submitting arguments to show that this particular provision of the ordinance was void as respects the alleged offense in question, etc., which was overruled by the court. A motion for a new trial and arrest of judgment was filed, but denied, whereupon an appeal to the Superior Court was prayed, where the validity of said provision of the ordinance will be tested by the defendant. Recorder Youngs reserved his sentence until 5 o'clock this afternoon, which will probably be the minimum fine, as it seems a well understood fact that the proceedings are for the purpose of a test case.

The region about Claremont and even to San Diego is being devastated by a caterpillar which is so general a feeder that it stops at hardly anything in the way of plant growth. It is the larva of a noctud moth and so is related to the cut worms and also to the army worms. The caterpillars are now nearly full grown and many have pupated, so the mischief for this season is nearly over.

REDONDO, May 13.—(Special Correspondence.) The crowds of Sunday excursionists are increasing éach week. Yesterday saw as large a crowd here as any day in summer, and though surf bathing was quite popular considering the earliness of the season, fishing seemed to draw the largest number of people, and there could have been but little disappointment in that line, as the number of fish caught was far ahead of anything this year. Yesterday was a splendid day for it.

The yacht Bonnie Belle, Capt. McDonald, took out a jolly Los Angeles party for the day's fishing, and a fine day's sport was had, as barracuda proved particularly plentiful for this time of year.

NEEDED THE MONEY.

Embezzler Coulter Was Brought Back from Missouri.

Deputy Sheriff Martin Aguirre returned from Trenton, Mo., Sunday night with his prisoner, J. W. Coulter, who, it is alleged, embezuled the price of a piano that he sold for Kohler & Chase while in their employ in this city. Coulter admits that he lead the money, but claims that he left sufficient assets with the firm to off-set the amount he absconded with. He also alleges that he was on his way back to Los Angeles to straighten out the fair when he was arrested. He claims further to be able to prove that he paid bills before he left, which he could have avoided if he had intended to be dishonest. He justifies his theft of the money on the ground that he needed it to send his invalid wife East, and subsequently had to go there to see her. from Missouri.

Good You Found Guilty.

Justice Morrison rendered his decision in the celebrated Good You vagrancy case yesterday, by finding the defendant guilty as charged. Sentence will be pronounced Wednesday. Some of the Chinese testimony for the defense in this case was so ridiculously false as to go far toward bringing about a conviction. There are fourteen more of these cases to be tried, all the defendants being Chinese prostitutes of the same type as the one convicted, and now that a precedent has been established it is probable that the rest will leave town and forfeit their bail ($200 each) unless the case is appealed.
